

Cooper M.

10/10/14

Online Safety

We use online resources in our everyday life to see are family to watch videos and to play games. There are some good things about online but we also have to be safe online. Everybody likes to be online but we have to be careful online and watch for dangers to be aware of. Like we have to us Netiquette and watch out for those cyberbullies and keep your information private. I will be talking about Digital Etiquette first then Cyberbullying next, after that Information Privacy.

I told you I was going to talk about Digital Etiquette. Digital Etiquette is being polite online, we all have to treat others the way we want to be treated. We have to use it in online games, text messages, and in chatting. Sometimes people can get into arguments and yelling at each other this is called flaming which could lead to full on flame wars, flame wars are multiple people in an argument like three or four people. Believe it or not there are people surfing the internet to start flame wars they are called Trouble making trolls. Try not to put all your words in all caps because other people might think you are yelling. Reread what you say because you might regret it.

Cyberbullying is a bully on the internet who makes other people feel bad about themselves and the people who are getting cyber bullied can hurt themselves or worse. They can posts embarrassing photos of you or send mean messages. You don't want to be a cyberbully stand up for people who are getting cyber bullied . Don't retaliate to a cyberbully because thats what they want you to do. Cyberbullies do this probably because the don't feel good about themselves and wants others to feel the same way they do.

Information Privacy is what it sounds like keeping your information private. One thing you want to make sure is to check the sites privacy policy before you sign up for anything because you could get spam. Spam is when people send you random stuff you don't want . Sometimes companies give addresses to spammers and give them money to spam. Delete any messages from people you don't recognize. The web is filled with scams and tricks. Remember to think before you share information. Even though there are dangers on the internet doesn't mean you can't play on the internet you just have to follow the rules because if you don't you could get into trouble, I hope you learned something from this.pppppp